THIEVES BUSY IN TOWNS

Numerous Burglaries Being Committed in Nearby Villages and Towns

SUCSESSEUL IN RICHMOND

Sam Bogart, a Poroled Convict, Caught at Waukesha and Evidence Found on His Person

An epidemic of burglaries seems to have struck this neighborhood and no less than seven places are reported to have been entered during the past week. The thieves are industriously plying their trade and in the immediate vicinity of Richmond four burglaries were committed in as many days.

The biggest undertaking of the four was the burglary of the bank at Hebron Saturday morning. The robbers were not very successful although they got away with $65 in cash. The second robbery occurred in Richmond Monday night, the scene being H. E. McClellan's saloon. The party who did this job made a haul of $40 in cash besides taking all of Mr. McClellan's books and several valuable papers. The greater share of the plunder has however been recovered, the robber having been caught at Waukesha Tuesday afternoon.

Spring Grove furnished the scene of the other two robberies Tuesday night when the store of Weber & Lay and J. J. Freund were entered but nothing of value was taken.

The robbery of the Hebron bank was plainly the work of professionals. The manner in which the robbers gained entrance to the building, blew open the vault and made their escape show that they were experienced hands.

After completing their work they left town with a rig stolen from the barn of John Brown, afterward turning the horse loose, it being found in the morning by Mr. Meissner in front of his store.

Entrance to the McClellan saloon was gained through the door under the hotel porch by cutting out a panel in the lower part of the door and throwing back the bolt which served as a lock. Suspicion was at once turned in the direction of Sam Bogart, a well known character who had been in Richmond all day Monday. He was later arrested in Waukesha on the charge of disorderly conduct, and McClellan's books and papers were found on his person.

The probabilities are that Bogart will be convicted, in which case his sentence will likely be a severe one, as it will mean his third term at Joliet, he having just completed his second term in the penitentiary on February 13 and had been at liberty only about a month.

The job at Spring Grove was plainly the work of amateurs who were familiar with the surroundings.

At Silverlake the places of burglary were the general store of R. M. Dixon where they secured a quantity of jewelry, and the saloon of Shottliff & Huck, where they secured about a dollar in small change and helped themselves to the best brews and best cigars.

At Rockefeller thieves entered the postoffice Monday night and were rewarded for their labors by securing ten cents in coin and twenty-five cents in stamps, these they tore to pieces and left.

A few hours later a report was spread from Ivanhoe that an attempt to rob a store there had failed.

Strenuous Church Worker.
Whitefield, one of the founders of Methodism, who died in 1770, was a strenuous preacher. His usual program was 40 hours' solid speaking each week, and this to congregations measured in thousands. This was not all. For "after his labors, instead of taking a rest, he was engaged in offering up prayers and intercessions or in singing hymns, as his manner was, in every house to which he was invited."

Varied Mental Diet.
Monotony of thought is the destruction of the brain. Watch yourself and give your mind a varied diet. Force yourself to put away all thoughts of your life work for a few hours every day, and for a few weeks every year. Learn to be frivolous if you are engaged in serious work, and learn to be serious if your work is of a humorous or light character. The brain, like the body, needs more than one kind of food to keep in health.

MILL DESTROYED BY FIRE

J. A. Bennett of Gurnee is Heavy Loser By Fire.

A fire completely destroyed the J. A. Bennett grist and cider mill building and machinery at Gurnee Wednesday morning. The flames were first noticed shortly after 10 o'clock at the west end of the mill and it is believed that the fire was started by sparks from the chimney. The flames were fought by a volunteer bucket brigade, of over 100, but had gained too much headway to be controlled.

Mr. Bennett's family lived above the mill, and a portion of their personal effects was saved. The ice house was destroyed.

There was insurance on the building but none on the $2,000 worth of machinery within it.

The fire attracted farmers and passers by for miles in every direction and the neighbors and friends with volunteer assistance did the best they could to get the grain out of the structure and other things that were of great value and that were removable.

It is understood that there was a great quantity of feed in the mill.

When Deputy Sheriff J. W. Gray learned of the fire at the Bennett mill in Gurnee Wednesday morning he secured a rig and hastened to his home which is located just across the street from the burned mill. When he arrived he found that a bucket brigade had protected his property. The mill was a total loss.

The value of the mill is estimated at $3500. The insurance was $1000.

FALLS FROM TRESTLE

Presence of Mind Saves Woman From Death.

Alice Fuller, 20 years old, was overtaken by an engine on a railroad trestle just outside Libertyville, Ill., last Thursday evening, and had a remarkable experience. She lowered herself at arm's length from the end of one of the ties and clung there until a sudden jolt shook her hold and she fell to the ground, fifteen feet below, on the edge of the Des Plaines river, sustaining injuries.

Dr. J. L. Taylor of Libertyville, who attended her, told the story.

"She was approaching the town with her small nephew," he said. "They heard a train coming—the train due in Libertyville at 6:40 p. m.—and stood aside to let it pass. They then approached the trestle over the Des Plaines river, thinking they would be perfectly safe. Suddenly they heard another rumble back down the track. They turned in terror to see a solitary engine crashing down toward them. According to Miss Fuller, it bore no headlights.

"Run, run!" the boy cried, wildly, suiting the action to the word. He reached the other side of the bridge in time, but Miss Fuller, seeing she would not be able to keep pace with him, stepped to the edge of the track and, grabbing one of the ties, lowered herself while the engine went by.

"The boy started back to help her, but before he could reach her there was a slight jolt on the structure and her already overtaxed strength gave way. Her fingers slipped and she fell. The boy ran for help and she was taken to the house where she lived with her mother, who is a widow. Luckily, she had got far enough along when the engine passed to make her fall onto the shore instead of into the water. Her injuries are severe, but she will recover in the course of time."

AGED COUPLE OVERCOME BY GAS FUMES

The accidental flipping about of the tail of an overcoat very nearly spelled eternity for Mr. and Mrs. J. Sage of Libertyville just the other day.

Returning from a "constitutional" in the open air with his wife, Sage walked to a clothes closet in the residence and removing his overcoat, gave it an accidental swing that brought the coat tails against the gas range. The results was that the movement loosened one of the cocks of the range and let just enough gas escape so that while the old people slept the gas permeated their systems and they were nearly fatally overcome.

Mr. Sage is 75 and Mrs. Sage is 74.

When an electric light man called at the house next morning near 10 o'clock the daughter, alarmed by the long continued slumber of the old folks, aroused Mr. Sage. Mrs. Sage was found to be deeply unconscious and Dr. Taylor was summoned. He succeeded in resuscitating them.

The town caucus held Saturday afternoon between the hours of 1:00 and 5:00 o'clock brought out 311 votes. The system inaugurated by the town committee of keeping the polls open for four hours, thus giving the farmers an opportunity to vote and return home if they so desired, proved satisfactory in every way and met with approval by all interested parties. In Elia Supervisor Ficke defeated former Supervisor Huntington three to one.

In Vernon Supervisor Quentin was not a candidate and A. G. Matthews defeated Everett Mason by 70 votes.

In Libertyville H. B. Eager was nominated by the republicans and W. E. Miller by the democrats.

In West Deerfield Supervisor M. Hornberger was renominated by a large vote.

In Grant Tom Graham received the democratic endorsement for supervisor while G. Stanford will be the republican candidate.

FORGRD CHECK PASSED; LOOK FOR SPENCER

James Ellsberry of Gurnee was in Waukesha Tuesday looking into the matter of a forged check which was made out in his name and endorsed by Verne Spencer, a former farm hand who, up to last fall, worked on the Ellsberry farm.

Later he had been working for a neighbor. Saturday Spencer went to Wanigan, and according to Hoffman Brothers, entered their store and asked them to cash a check for $12, signed by Mr. Ellsberry and made out on the Security Bank. Hoffman's cashed the check after seeing Spencer endorse it and left the store.

According to local saloon keepers, he was in their places as late as Saturday evening. Since then he has not been seen and has not returned to the farm.

It was not until the check was presented to the Security bank that it was discovered that the check was forged Ellsberry banks at the first national. Efforts to locate Spencer have failed but the police have taken up the case and he may be found. He is 32 years old and lived about Lake county for some time.

HOLD OUT ON CONTRACT

Elgin Leaders in Price War Hear Encouraging News From District

PLAN AGENCY FOR PRODUCT

Organization to Supply Various Large Markets, Is Present Plan of the Milk Producers' Association

That a large percentage of the milk producers throughout the Elgin district are holding out for higher milk prices is the substance of a report received by Secretary J. P. Grier of the Milk Producers' association, and through him by Charles H. Potter of Elgin, director for Kane county.

Furthermore, the sales agency organized under the producers' association will enable all who do not otherwise dispose of milk to sell it through this medium, announced Mr. Potter.

Altogether the attitude taken by farmers who are members of the association, and by leaders of the organization, indications that there will be a fight for better prices, notwithstanding the fact that many signed contracts to deliver milk for the ensuing six months. In Elgin there were numerous contracts signed, and the Borden company announced that its supply of milk would not be curtailed. In regard to Elgin contracts, Director Potter of the association, said:

"Of course there were many who signed up here, and that is not remarkable, for there are many Borden stockholders in Elgin and many who hold farmers' notes. Both classes influenced those under their control to sign contracts. This applies especially to tenants on farms immediately surrounding Elgin."

As for the conditions in surrounding villages, indications were that hold-outs were numerous. This was true particularly in Dundee, Carpentersville, Barrington, Algonquin and St. Charles. The villages and milk stations along the Illinois Central showed similar attitude toward signing.

"The general policy outside of Elgin is to hold out for the time being, until it is learned whether prices will be forthcoming," said Mr. Potter. "There is no need of hurry at present, for the present contracts do not expire for fifteen days, and then there is the alternative of disposing of milk through other sources."

The new milk agency established by the Milk Producers' association will dispose of milk in all markets, according to present plans. The product will be sent not only to Chicago, but to a number of other larger markets, and it is said that the association is now working on details of a plan which will enable farmers to dispose of milk without signing the contracts.

The scale of prices offered at the Elgin, St. Charles and other nearby Borden plants, the Ira J. Mix Dairy company at East Plato, the Bowman company at St. Charles, and the Cornell creameries at Huntley, Maple Park, Harmony, Lake Geneva, Wis., and Garden Prairie, as compared with last year is:

Month	Last Year	This Year
April.....	$1.40	$1.45
May.....	1.10	1.20
June.....	.95	1.05
July.....	1.05	1.20
August.....	1.25	1.30
September.....	1.35	1.40

Average ..... $1.18 1-3 $1.26 2-3
The prices offered by the Borden company at Richmond was 84 cents over the schedule of last year and that the dairymen are satisfied with the prices offered is evident from the fact that everyone of the thirty-one patrons of the factory signed contracts.

Will Have to be More Careful.

There is an Artemus Ward Jr., a New York assemblyman, who is said to be a wit like his famous namesake. On a recent occasion he nominated Ward F. Clute of New York city for head doorkeeper, but forgot the office, and had to rise again to rectify his mistake. It is to be hoped his reputation for wit does not rest solely on this occurrence.

OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Kelly Entertained in Honor of Their Silver Wedding

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Kelly on South Main street, Saturday evening, March 19, 1910, the occasion being the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of their brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Kelly.

About seven o'clock the guests began to arrive and by eight the house was well filled with the merry throng. After passing about an hour in social converse, progressive cinch was introduced, fourteen tables were filled and ten games were played.

Mrs. George Hockney easily proved her skill by having eight games to her credit at the close of the evening.

J. B. Burnett and J. J. Morley kept up a friendly rivalry for the championship throughout the evening, their efforts resulting in a tie, and to decide to whom that honor belonged they played it out, J. B. proving himself the victor, in spite of Morley whom he accused of having played the same card twice on two different occasions during the play off game. After an evening of hard work George Hockney finally won one game for which he was truly thankful.

About midnight a bountiful lunch was passed and judging from the compliments heard on all sides it was one of the most interesting features on the program.

After luncheon the guests were treated to a few excellent vocal selections rendered by Messrs George Bartlett and Claire and Ernest Kelly, accompanied by Mrs. Stauter of Chicago, on the piano.

At about half past twelve the guests departed for their various homes each assuring Mr. and Mrs. Kelly that a most enjoyable evening had been spent and each expressing the wish that they might all be permitted to join with them in celebrating their golden wedding anniversary.

Those present and the gifts of each are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Bower, of Cleveland, Ohio, silver sugar bowl; Robert Kelly, of Chicago, cut glass water pitcher and glasses; Jos. Westlake, set haviland china dinner plates; Geo. Bartlett, silver fruit stand; Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Ray of Waukegan, silver serving tray; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown and Mrs. L. B. Kelly were received from the following friends, in the shape of a beautiful china closet, Messrs and Mesdames A. N. Tiffany, W. H. Smart, B. R. Hoysradt, J. J. Morley, Ed Wells C. A. Powles, H. Bock, W. J. Chinn, C. Sibley, B. F. Van Patten, J. Filweber, G. H. Hockney, G. Thayer, Mrs. Lena Gaggin, Miss Jennie Sibley and J. B. Burnett. Others present were Mrs. Mary Marshall, Mrs. McCullough, Earl Somerville, Effie Kelly and Ralph Kinrade.

HEY AND EVANS WAR

Over Pasteurization of the Chicago Milk Being Furnished by Farmers

HEY FOR TUBERCULIN TEST

Evans Holds Immediate Enforcement of Tuberculin Test Would Put Many Small Dealers Out of Business

Alderman Jacob Hey and Health Commissioner W. A. Evans clashed Wednesday in Chicago over the subject of pasteurization of Chicago's milk supply. Each has made a determined effort to round up the aldermanic vote on the proposition when it comes into the council next Monday night.

Alderman Hey said: "I find the aldermen, with the exception of eight, are with me to substitute tuberculin test for the pasteurization of milk. Some of them are a little afraid of the proposition when it comes into the council next Monday night."

"If there is any one alderman or any tax payer who doubts this, let him ask his family physician what he thinks about the comparative value of milk from tuberculin tested cows with proper inspection and pasteurized milk. I am willing to leave the whole matter to any man's physician. The greatest medical experts in the country say that pasteurization does not kill tuberculosis and typhoid bacteria."

His amendment does not propose to do away with all the safeguards thrown about Chicago's milk supply. That kind of talk is all rot. We propose to substitute a better safeguard, something that is not a mere makeshift. Pasteurization is a makeshift but it will continue in force until all the herds which supply Chicago have been properly tested and the dairies inspected.

With the tuberculin test in force Chicago will have a supply of natural pure milk with all its good qualities retained, instead of a supply of milk in which the bacteria are partially killed by heating.

Pasteurization works a great injustice on the small dealer who cannot afford to buy a $1,500 plant. It gives all his business over to the combine.

Alderman Hey's statements were brought out by the discovery that Health Commissioner Evans had called in all the assistants in his department and ordered them to get busy and fight for retention of the pasteurization clause in the milk ordinance. Dr. Evans made it clear to the head of the health department that he would be "in bad" with the administration unless he at least called on his aldermen and urged them to fight the Hey amendment.

Dr. Evans personally sent out a three page letter to each alderman urging them to oppose the Hey amendment. He insisted that small dealers could afford to pasteurize and said that plants could be bought for $150. He admits, however, that few such plants are in use. In addition, he suggests that small dealers could turn their milk over to the big bottling companies or start co-operative plants of their own.

According to Dr. Evans' figures, more milk licenses were taken out last year under the pasteurization ordinance than in the previous year. "Chicago now gets 30,000 eight gallon cans of milk each day," said Dr. Evans. "Of this, 7,000 cans comes from tuberculin tested cows." Dr. Evans holds that immediate enforcement of the tuberculin test would put many small dealers out of business.

The Master of Craven

By Marie Van Vorst

Author of
"Amanda of the Mill,"
"Miss Desmond,"
etc., etc.

SYNOPSIS.

Basil Tempest, world's greatest novelist and poet, refusing to be further lionized, shuts himself up in Craven, his country home. His gloomy meditations are broken by his housekeeper, who has disobeyed his orders not to admit any one. The visitor is Lucy Carew, an American, who has come to England to write a study of the author, but more especially to get a synopsis of his new suite of poems, having been promised a good position with a magazine if successful. Tempest in anger, declares he will write no more, and asks her to go. Repenting of his rudeness in sending her out in the rain at night, he follows, but she refuses to return to Craven with him, and takes lodging with a cottager. Next morning Lucy receives a note from Tempest offering to assist her in writing her essay. Tempest dictates to Lucy, who listens spellbound as she writes. Tempest calls at the cottage and discovers that Lucy has left to take a train for London. He overtakes her and induces her to stay over and read the manuscript to him. He invites her to dine with him. She declines, but says she will call the following day. Angry and disappointed, Tempest goes to London.

CHAPTER III.—Continued.

He shrugged impatiently. "You know how little the last would affect me. I am going away on a longer journey than four weeks, and I want you to come with me."

She withdrew her hand, which he still held—not snatched it, but slowly and meditatively withdrew it. Tempest felt sensitively her complexion of mind—he had surprised, but not shocked her. Leaning towards her, in a low tone he pleaded with her, storming her citadel, whose weakness he knew. Afterwards, she thought in reviewing the moment that he had pleaded as one for life—as for a raft to be thrown to a drowning man. Was it possible he loved her like this?

"Do you realize what you are asking me to do?" she said in a pause. "Yes," he said shortly, "give up a London and a husband whose life is notorious, whose existence is a plague to you, a reputation amongst those who have none themselves, a false situation for a sincere one, for a life with the man whom you say you love. Ormond will divorce you, and I will marry you at once."

Lady Ormond had believed the original Tempest who had made her forget everything but himself could not return with the old charm and imperious challenge. She had been wrong then in her belief, for he was talking her over again out of herself and beyond her control.

"Why are you like this?" she murmured with some emotion. "Will you be like this always? If I thought it, I could not hesitate."

At her tone, certainly not the one of brusque denial he had anticipated, Tempest experienced a curious mingling of exultant victory and of sincere regret.

"To-morrow, Letty," he said, and took her hand again, "you must come with me to-morrow."

In her utter surprise Lady Ormond was finding herself equal to Tempest's demands. She did not hesitate for one moment to make a concession he had never asked before. He was rich—would be richer—famous, not yet in the zenith of his celebrity. There was in sharing his life just one sacrifice, and that she determined not to make if she could avoid it.

"Basil!"—she leaned towards him, lifted her head in a way to reveal the clear, pure lines of her neck and chin, her face like a flower turned to the sun—"Basil, I am not cavilling, but you are so impetuous and impracticable. Let me get the divorce from Ormond. It is merely a form—one I can have for the asking. You don't wish to sacrifice me needlessly, do you? You are not so orgueilleux that you must see me humiliated, are you? You are not vain—really, you know—won't you let me get out decently?"

He smiled and sighed. "Decently!" he repeated with some scorn. "Can you, Letty?"

"I will see my lawyers to-morrow." He frowned and hurried. "Then you refuse to come with me?"

"No," she nodded determinedly. "I don't refuse. If you are set on ruining my reputation—for a whim—why, I won't stand in the way of your egoism."

He capitulated. "Well, you have surprised me, Letty; but then you are a perfect type, and I flatter myself that I can predict the rest. You will take the narrow and more respectable way, as you think it to be. But you won't come with me, Letty—you won't come."

"Nonsense," she laughed, and covered his lips with her hand. "You have my word."

Under the hand which he held to his lips he murmured something. It was "Good-by—no respite."

Lady Ormond was filled with satisfaction. She had been equal to the supreme occasion with Tempest; she was not an ordinary woman, then; she had proved her mettle and distinction and was worth the greatest man of the hour.

Tempest took his leave early, went to his club, and wrote her a note which she found on her dressing-table when she went, very shortly after, home and to her room.

Tempest was sitting in the smoking-room of the Carlton when a note was brought and every eye was turned to him as the page's voice called, "Mr. Basil Tempest." He beckoned the boy and took the letter, which he thrust into his pocket and went up to his apartment. For a few seconds he turned the letter over in his hands as if he wished to defer certainty, his face gloomy, curious, and still mocking. Then, going close to the electric light so that all its force shone on the page, he took the single sheet of paper from the envelope.

"I don't know whether to blame you or myself—you for dreaming a woman can share the life you write of—I for refusing. I know you still too well to discuss what you say—to advise or suggest. But I am not equal to the sacrifice."

"Bah!" he said, and before he had ended tore it in shreds and let the pieces fall as they would on the hotel carpet.

"I know people too well," he said. "There are no surprises for me. It's a curse to understand your kind—I wish I were a fool! It's only when a man's a fool or in love that he has any chance for happiness."

He stood thinking a second or two, wounded in his vanity—if not broken-hearted, then made his preparations for taking the next train for—shire.

CHAPTER IV.

When at three o'clock the following afternoon Miss Carew arrived at Craven she was met by Mrs. Henly, who, bustling in before her, said:

"You're to be so good as to wait, miss, in the mornin'-room. I've a fire laid there and I am to see you have books and papers and whatever you will like, Mr. Tempest telegraphed."

With her last words she threw open the doors of a room whose atmosphere greeted with its brightness—the color and light of it seemed to extend hands.

With native habit of assigning ranks and places to Mr. Tempest's familiars, Mrs. Henly had estimated this sudden guest, by her simplicity and her grace, to be of as high breeding and as worthy blood as the savage United States can provide. The housekeeper, the dearest and sweetest creature one could find in cameos and black silk and caps in the responsible position of head of any bachelor gentleman's household, watched her master's affairs de coeur with an interest and sometimes a jealousy as strong as imposter.

Mrs. Henly talked only with her superiors, she knew she had them—her equals, by reason of being a unique specimen of her type, she had not as yet recognized. Servants were servants to her. She never spoke to them save to give orders or to minister to one in trouble.

By them she was seen to be a very grande dame indeed—by Tempest to be quite the most flawless pearl of womanhood.

Living, as she did, very isolated at Craven, she was now faintly flushed with appreciative anticipation of the few moments' chat with Miss Carew before the master should appear. Miss Carew had come from the land of freedom, but whilst she suggested its delicious liberty she lost with it no quality. Mrs. Henly's old eyes regarded the figure of the American with favor. Miss Carew asked: "Mr. Tempest has telegraphed—is he away?"

"He was obliged to run up to London yesterday of a sudden just after Shorter fetched in your note." As though the sight of the master's instructions might beguile the guest, Mrs. Henly spread out the pink bit of paper on the table under her hand and read: "Miss Carew arrives at three. Make her welcome, give her books and papers. I shall be up by the express."

"Which means," Mrs. Henly explained, "he left London at six this mornin'; it's a nine hours' run. I've sent the motor to Billings Pore—it's a bit shorter by rail. Mr. Basil does hate rail travel."

Miss Carew did not remark that with apparent ease he took 18 hours out of the 24 for the matter of a short time in town! The dispatch with its minute instructions read in itself a welcome to her, and it was a charming place in which to wait.

Craven's empire morning-room opened on a terraced flower-garden, where to trees already nearly leafless a few November roses clung. The walls, hung in yellow brocade, extended to the duldest day a sense of glow and light. The few pieces of furniture, veritable treasures even in their old epoch, indicated the faultless taste and virtuosity of the selector. Before the fire in the same yellow satin a small divan with bronze reliefs on shining legs and back, a few stiff, dignified fauteuils, a long center-table, a mirror screen. On the mantel a clock and candelabra whose graceful infantile subjects suggested the design to have been intended to please the little king of Rome, a biscuit group, a candle-lamp with vivid green shade—these were all.

"It's a pretty little room," Mrs. Henly said indulgently. "All the sun there ever is comes here, but to-day it's a bit chilly, isn't it? So I had the fire lit early."

She was before it with the bellows urging the flame. As she raised her matronly self up she said: "It's Lady Ormond's style; she was never content until Mr. Basil had torn the old things out. It's like a sweet-box to my thinkin' and a bit bare. It needs people to set it off," she criticised, unconsciously paying the proper artistic tribute to the style of the period the room represented—created to display and to serve as background for the First Empire elegance and simplicity.

But Miss Carew only caught at the name. Lady Ormond! She had seen it often in the papers.

"You know her ladyship—no," Mrs. Henly took for granted. In a frame on whose mahogany border buzzed the Napoleonic bee in bronze was the photograph of a lady in ball dress. Mrs. Henly lifted it.

"Lady Ormond at the last court ball."

The girl's eyes were met by a pair of eyes handsome and mocking, hard and cold as her own were soft and sweet.

"A professional beauty," Mrs. Henly ranked her. "But," and she connected her with the room as she glanced around Lady Ormond's creation—"a trifle cold."

Miss Carew replaced the picture. The proud beauty, her cape of velvet and sable falling from one bare shoulder, seemed to reign over the room. Miss Carew no longer felt the warmth of its greeting. It had assumed a personality in which she had no part. The personages had come to people it—it suffocated her, and she walked mechanically over to the window and stood there, looking out on the dreary aspect of bare trees, the whirl of withered leaves along the garden paths, and the few last roses, more wintry and melancholy in their desolation than the specter leaves that had already passed through death.

She Walked Mechanically Over to the Window and Stood There.

She said hesitatingly: "Since Mr. Tempest has telegraphed, I suppose it will be best for me to wait a little."

But Mrs. Henly interrupted her. "Wait? Why, Mr. Basil wouldn't hear of you not waiting, miss! He'd think I had not made you comfortable. What can I get you?" She lingered.

Perhaps Miss Carew understood something of the woman's interest in herself—her natural curiosity, perhaps Lady Ormond in her frame, the boldness of her sway at Craven, made the American say, lifting to the placid English face her clear dark eyes:

"I'm here for the first time in England. I came from my country expressly to write a study of Mr. Tempest for America."

The old housekeeper smiled. "A study of Mr. Basil!" she echoed. "Why, my dear, I had him at ten years old for my own, as I might say, and I couldn't study him! It's like learnin' a new language every day. He's never the same."

"It's his charm."

"Oh, I daresay!" Mrs. Henly was doubtful, there being moods she had right to remember as not possessing that characteristic. "But he'll not tell you anything, miss. He won't be written. I've seen them who would study him as you call it—come and go, chiefly. No one ever stayed as you have." She paused. "You're a writer, too, then?"

Stony Meteorites.

Stony meteorites, according to Prof. William M. Pickering, who favors a theory promulgated by Prof. Chamberlin, may have had their origin in the earth as by-products of the catastrophe which split the moon off from our globe. The fact that they could not get cosmically very far away from us accounts for them dropping in on us occasionally when so inclined. "In support of this view of their terrestrial origin, we have the fact that 29 terrestrial elements, including helium, have so far been recognized in meteorites, ten of them being non-metallic. No new elements have been found.

The six which occur most frequently in the earth's crust, named in the order of their abundance, are oxygen, silicon, aluminum, iron, calcium and magnesium. The eight most commonly found in the stony meteorites are these six, besides nickel and sulphur."

He reserved the right to change the plea or demur, and was released on $7,500 bail.

The voluntary appearance of Mr. Patterson was taken by the Jersey City authorities to indicate the intention of the other Chicago beef millionaires who were indicted to surrender to the New Jersey courts.

STRIKE OF MINERS FEARED

SAYS BALLINGER IS WRONG

Director Newell Denies Several Statements Made by Secretary in Pinchot Inquiry.

Washington.—Director F. H. Newell of the reclamation service took the stand Saturday in the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation and denied several statements made by Secretary Ballinger to the effect that his bureau had recommended the restoration of lands withdrawn from entry under the Garfield regime.

His testimony was largely corroborative of that given by Chief Engineer Davis concerning conferences he and Davis had with Ballinger in March, 1909, at which the latter expressed the opinion that withdrawals made by Secretary Garfield were illegal and that he intended to restore them.

The witness denied the accuracy of statements made by Ballinger in letters explaining his action in restoring water power sites in which Ballinger declared he had done so because the reclamation service had recommended it. Newell said he protested strongly against "throwing back all power sites."

Attorney Pepper questioned the witness regarding the "black tent" affair. Newell corroborated Davis' statement that Ballinger had become angry because he had written a letter to E. T. Perkins, Chicago purchasing agent of the service, suggesting that he resign because he had accepted $500 a month for four months from the Harriman railroad for advertising lands along their lines in his "black tent" lecture tour. Newell said the secretary subsequently placed the stamp of approval on Perkins' conduct.

In Remembrance

In sad remembrance of my dear husband who died one year ago today, March 23, 1909.

Oh why do I grieve for the loved one that has vanished?

Oh why do I long for a clasp of his hand?

Oh why does my heart full of sorrow be yearning,

When I know he has passed to a happier land,

Where none of life's sorrow can shadow the peace of his rest?

Oh why should I grieve when the one I loved dearest,

Is free from life care in the home of the blest.

God has spoken, God has taken him, He knows best.

But God the loving one has promised we in heaven shall meet again.

His Lonesome Wife.

Last Saturday afternoon Vera Tiffany entertained a few of her little friends in honor of her twelfth birthday anniversary. The afternoon was pleasantly spent with games until about five o'clock when a dainty luncheon was served. Those who enjoyed the privilege of being present were: Ruth Kinrade, Olive Young, Mabel Richards, Helen Naber, Elsie Herman, Viola Kuhaupt, Jeanette Wallace, Harlie Davis, Marie Johannott, Blanche Stickles, Stella Zellinger, Susan Tiffany, Marguerite McCullough, Madeline Hubbard and Phyllis Morley.

The new ritual of the M. W. A. is now about ready to be sent out to the camps of the state, and some of the deputies have already received copies of the work and will have thoroughly studied them before they are sent to the camp officers, so that they will be in a position to explain any troublesome section which may appear. The books are expected to be in the hands of the camp officers about the first of April. The new floor work drill manual of the order will also be ready for delivery at the same time. It is said that the secret work will be almost entirely new after this change.

In the personal injury case of Wm. McCanney vs. Converse of Fox Lake, the jury Tuesday evening returned a verdict finding the defendant not guilty. They sent in a special verdict as well, in which they stated that in their mind, Converse was not the man who struck McCanney. This is a case where a Waukegan crowd last summer went to Fox Lake, and a fight ensued. McCanney was badly hurt and he sued for $5,000, claiming that Converse had struck him.

Monday afternoon about four o'clock smoke was discovered issuing from one of the upstairs bedrooms of the Edgar hotel, but fortunately the prompt action on the part of Mr. Edgar in the use of a chemical fire extinguisher, and the quick response to the cry of fire, the blaze was soon extinguished and what would have been a disastrous fire was averted. Had the flames once gained headway the strong wind that was blowing at the time would have made it impossible to have saved the other nearby buildings. The cause of the fire is unknown it having apparently started in the bed, for at the time of discovery the bed was unwrapped in flames while the other furnishings of the room were unharmed. The hose cart was rushed to the scene but it was not necessary to put it in use as the flames were already under control.

WILL CHOOSE NEW RULES COMMITTEE

House Decides to Depose Speaker Cannon from His Position of Power.

RETAINS THE SPEAKERSHIP

Legislators Dethrone Veteran Statesman, But by Overwhelming Majority Reject Motion to Consider His Position Vacant—List of "Insurgents."

Washington.—The three days' battle for supremacy in the national house of representatives ended Saturday with the deposition of Speaker Cannon from his place of power.

With a determination that gave no quarter, the insurgent Republicans, aided by their Democratic allies, shattered the speaker's power, and then turned in and helped the regular Republicans give "Uncle Joe" a rousing and affecting vote of personal confidence.

By a vote of 191 to 155 the house doubled the size of the present rules committee, made it an elective body, and eliminated the speaker from its membership. Then, likewise by a vote of 191 to 155, the house refused to depose Mr. Cannon from the speakership.

Cannon Stakes Speakership.

When he had seen himself beaten on the question of reorganizing the rules committee, which controls the house, Mr. Cannon offered to yield up also the office of speaker, which he occupies, and permit the election of a successor.

The majority of the insurgents at this juncture parted ways with their Democratic allies, and joining hands with the standpatners, refused to declare the chair of the speaker vacant. Forty-three Republican insurgents voted for the new rule. Only nine went on record to oust the speaker.

New Rules Committee.

Under the terms of the new order of things the house bound itself within ten days to proceed to the organization of a new rules committee of ten members, six of whom shall be Republicans and four Democrats, and to which body the speaker is not eligible.

These members will be nominated in the Republican and Democratic caucuses and elected by resolution in the house.

This new body will take over the reins of power from the present rules committee of five members appointed by the speaker and dominated by his influence. The committee will handle the machinery which grinds out legislation in the lower house.

Here is the Norris resolution, which was adopted:

"There shall be a committee on rules, elected by the house (hitherto the committee of five, like all other house committees, has been appointed by the speaker), consisting of ten members, six of whom shall be members of the majority party and four of whom shall be members of the minority party. The speaker shall not be a member of the committee and the committee shall elect its own chairman from its own members.

"Resolved, Further, That within ten days after the adoption of this resolution there shall be an election of this committee and immediately upon its election the present committee on rules shall be dissolved."

Texas's Resolution Defeated.

Here is the resolution of Representative Burleson, which was defeated:

"Resolved, That the office of speaker of the house of representatives is hereby declared to be vacant, and the house of representatives shall at once proceed to the election of a speaker."

Caucuses, it was announced, would be called immediately by both parties to select, respectively, the six Republicans and four Democrats who are to constitute the new committee on rules. The old committee consisted of Speaker Cannon, chairman, and Messrs. Dalzell of Pennsylvania, Smith of Iowa, Republicans, and Minority Leader Clark of Missouri and John J. Fitzgerald of New York, Democrats.

Republican Leader Seno E. Payne said that "recent events" were "too recent" for his party to have decided definitely upon the date of its caucus. Republican Whip Wright thought it would be at an early date. Minority Leader Clark thought the Democratic caucus would meet within a few days. The fact is that both parties to the long and bitter fight were too thoroughly fatigued to have formed any definite plans. Nature was calling first for sleep, and a respite from the long struggle was a necessity.

"Insurgent" Republicans.

The Republican members of congress who voted against the speaker were:

Nelson, Kopp, Carey, Cooper, Davidson, Lenroot, Morse of Wisconsin, Davis, Lindbergh, Miller, Stearnson, Volstead of Minnesota, Kendall, Hubbard, Good, Haughn, Picketts, Woods of Iowa, Hinshaw, Kinkaid, Norris of Nebraska, Madison, Murdock of Kansas, Howland, Johnson, Taylor of Ohio, Ames, Gardner of Massachusetts, Poelker, Fish of New York, Poindexter of Washington, Martin of South Dakota, Gronna of North Dakota, Fowler of New Jersey, Hayes of California.

After five hours of turbulent and relentless onslaught, which the combined insurgents and Democrats led with invariable success against Mr. Cannon and the standpatners, the finale was dramatic in the extreme. Mr. Cannon, confessing his defeat, read a statement in which he defended his course, contended that he had done no political wrong, and offered to entertain a motion to declare the chair vacant and the election of a successor in order.

This is the crux of what he read:

"The speaker has always said that under the constitution, it is a question of the highest privilege for an actual majority of the house at any time to choose a new speaker. He again notifies the house that the speaker will at this moment or at any other time while he remains speaker entertain in conformity with the highest constitutional privilege a motion by any member to vacate the office of the speakership and choose a new speaker, and under existing conditions would welcome such action upon the part of the actual majority of the house so that power and responsibility may rest with the Democratic and insurgent members, who, by the last vote, evidently constitute a majority of this house. The chair is now ready to entertain such a motion."

In accordance with a prearranged plan, which by chance had become known to the speaker's friends, Mr. Burleson, a Texas Democrat, offered a resolution declaring the speaker's chair vacant, and amid scenes of wild disorder "Uncle Joe" turned over the gavel to Representative Payne and retired to his room to await the outcome. The Democrats voted solidly to depose the speaker, while all the regulars and most of the insurgents voted against it. Burleson's action was regarded even by some of his Democratic colleagues as a big tactical blunder.

The nine insurgents who voted to oust the speaker from the chair were: Cary (Wis.), Cooper (Wis.), Davis (Minn.), Gronna (N. D.), Lenroot (Wis.), Lindbergh (Minn.), Murdock (Kan.), Nelson (Wis.), Poindexter (Wash.).

With announcement of the vote of personal confidence in Mr. Cannon a wild whoop went up from the floor and swept the galleries.

Jenkins, St. Louis; Ed. Hill, Muscatine; George Downing, Vinton; E. S. Pritchard, Cedar Rapids; Miss Young, Vinton; A. X. Brown, Waterloo; William Moody, Waterloo.

The ill-fated train was being backed toward Waterloo by two engines, and was going at a high rate of speed, making up time.

The train was en route from Chicago via West Liberty and Cedar Rapids to St. Paul. Upon arriving at Cedar Rapids, the crew learned that a freight wreck had occurred at Shellsburg, a few miles north.

Accordingly, the train was detoured over the Great Western tracks to Marshalltown.

After leaving Marshalltown the train, which was composed of ten coaches and the two engines, proceeded to make up lost time and was running at the rate of thirty-two or forty miles an hour.

Four miles north of Green Mountain there was a sudden lurch and a moment later the entire train had left the tracks and lay a splintered mass of wreckage and twisted iron and steel at the bottom of a small embankment. It is believed that a defective rail was the cause of the catastrophe.

The sudden impact caused a Pullman sleeper to telescope the smoking car, driving the sleeper clear through the car. The smoker in turn telescoped the woman's day coach. In these two cars the loss of life was appalling, there being 30 passengers in the woman's coach.

The scenes that followed the wreck were awful. As fast as possible the dead were taken from the wreckage by the survivors and laid out in rows close to the track.

An interview with Dr. Devry of Chicago, a passenger on the ill-fated train, says he was the first man to enter the wrecked cars. He states that for fully a minute after the accident you could hear a pin drop. The first removed was Prof. Parrish, who has since died. Dr. Devry says that all passengers worked like Trojans. A great many of the bodies were dismembered and dismembered.

Shipwrecks Cost 225 Lives.

Boston.—Two hundred and twenty-five persons perished by shipwreck and 83 vessels met with disaster off the New England and British North American coasts while engaged in the New England, Canadian or Newfoundland trade during the fall and winter of 1909-10. Of the vessels lost 11 were steamers or tugs, one was a full-rigged ship, four were barks, three barkentines and 62 schooners. Several barges were also lost. The financial loss will probably exceed $1,000,000.

Follow this advice. Quaker Oats is the best of all foods; it is also the cheapest. When such men as Prof. Fisher of Yale University and Sir James Crichton Browne, LL.D., F.R.S. of London spend the best part of their lives in studying the great question of the nourishing and strengthening qualities of different foods, it is certain that their advice is absolutely safe to follow.

Professor Fisher found in his experiments for testing the strength and endurance of athletes that the meat eaters were exhausted long before the men who were fed on such food as Quaker Oats. The powers of endurance of the non-meat eaters were about eight times those of the meat eaters.

Sir James Crichton Browne says—eat more oatmeal, eat plenty of it and eat it frequently. 59

Fighting Disease in Greece.

Consul General George Horton has made a report from Athens on the conspicuous work of Greek physicians in combating the country's chief scourges—malaria fever and tuberculosis. An annual average of 2,000 persons die each year from the former, while in epidemic years, due to excessive rains, the number exceeds 6,000, which was the case in 1905. The population of Greece is 2,483,806. The people have been interested through lectures, pamphlets, etc., to fight the malaria-carrying mosquito by draining stagnant ponds and throwing petroleum on them. A tuberculosis congress will be held in Athens next year, to which will be invited not only physicians, but all the mayors and other prominent people of Greece.

DRY SHAMPOO BETTER THAN SOAP AND WATER.

(From the New York Graphic)

"Once in two or three months is as often as it is advisable to wash the hair with soap and water," says Charles Montague, the beauty expert. "The rubbing, drying and rinsing, together with the action of the alkali—tend to make the hair coarse, hard and brittle. Too much moisture causes the hair to become thin and lose its color."

"A simple and satisfactory dry shampoo is made by mixing four ounces of powdered orris root with four ounces of ether. Sprinkle a tablespoonful of this mixture on the head and brush thoroughly through the hair once or twice a week. That is all there is to it. This treatment not only keeps the hair light, fluffy and lustrous, but therex produces the growth of new hair."

Driven by Hunger to Desperation.

Mrs. Mode had just returned home from the country, to discover her previously well-stocked wardrobe empty. "Good gracious, Herbert," she cried to her husband, "where are all my clothes? And what in the world is that big black patch out on the lawn?" "Nelly," he replied mournfully, "after I had starved for two whole days, you wrote me that the key of the pantry was in the pocket of your bolero. Well, I don't know a bolero from a box-plated ruffe, and I was desperate, so I took all the things out on the lawn and burned them. Then I found the key among the ashes."—Success Magazine.

"How Sharper Than Serpent's Tooth."

An irritable old farmer and his ungainly, slouching son were busy grubbing sprouts one hot, sultry day, when the old man suddenly stumbled over a small stump.

"Gosh darn that everlasting stump!" he exclaimed. "I wish it was in hell!"

The son slowly straightened up from his work and gazed reproachfully at his father.

"Why, you oughtn't to say that, pap," he drawled. "You might stumble over that stump again some day."—Everybody's.

The Modern Spirit.

"Can anything be more indicative of the spirit of the time?" asks an observer, writing from Paris, than this: "A group of three at a fashionable restaurant, table, old lady, middle aged man and young woman of the 'society age.' The man, giving an order to the waiter: 'Bring my mother a glass of milk, a beer for me and an absinthe for my daughter.'"

A LITTLE THING

Changes the Home Feeling.

Coffee blots out the sunshine from many a home by making the mother, or some other member of the household, dyspeptic, nervous and irritable. There are thousands of cases where the proof is absolutely undeniable. Here is one.

A Wis. mother writes: "I was taught to drink coffee at an early age, and also at an early age became a victim to headaches, and as I grew to womanhood these headaches became a part of me, as I was scarcely ever free from them."

"About five years ago a friend urged me to try Postum. I made the trial and the result was so satisfactory that we have used it ever since."

"My husband and little daughter were subject to bilious attacks, but they have both been entirely free from them since we began using Postum instead of coffee. I no longer have headaches and my health is perfect."

If some of these tired, nervous, irritable women would only leave off coffee absolutely and try Postum they would find a wonderful change in their life. It would then be filled with sunshine and happiness rather than yearning and discontent. And think what an effect it would have on the family, for the mood of the mother is largely responsible for the temper of the children.

An aching back is instantly relieved by an application of Sloan's Liniment.

This liniment takes the place of massage and is better than sticky plasters. It penetrates—without rubbing—through the skin and muscular tissue right to the bone, quickens the blood, relieves congestion, and gives permanent as well as temporary relief.

Here's the Proof.

MR. JAMES C. LEE, of 1109 9th St., S.E., Washington, D.C., writes: "Thirty years ago I fell from a scaffold and seriously injured my back. I suffered terribly at times from the small of my back all around my stomach was just as if I had been beaten with a club. I used every plaster I could get with no relief. ## WESTERN CANADA

Senator Dolliver, of Iowa, says:

"The stream of emigrants from the United States to Canada will continue." Senator Dolliver recently paid a visit to Western Canada, and says: "There is a land hunger in the hearts of our people; this will account for the fact that during 1909, 100,000 more people are coming to Canada. Our people are pleased with the government and the excellent administration of the land and they are coming to see that they are still coming."

Iowa contributed largely to the Canadian land hunger. Iowa farmers who made Canada their home during 1909, field crop returns alone during the year added to the wealth of the province to the sum of $170,000,000.00.

PEACE OF NATIONS

IS THE THEME OF PRESIDENT TAFT AND CANADA'S RULER.

SPEAK AT ALBANY DINNER

Earl Gray Touches on Friendly Ties Binding Two Countries—Gov. Hughes Says Unfaithful Public Servants Should Be Turned Out.

Albany, N. Y.—President Taft clasped hands with Earl Grey, governor general of Canada, Saturday night, at the banquet of the University club. Gov. Hughes was also present.

Rumors that Mr. Taft was to have important political conferences during his stay proved to be without foundation. The president announced that he had made no engagements of a political character.

All three of the distinguished visitors were speakers at the banquet. The chief subject of their addresses was the friendship between the two countries.

"I may perhaps be excused if I confess to you, with all the confidence of one who has lived for upwards of five years in close and delightful intimacy with the Canadian people, that they are well worthy of your esteem and affection," said Earl Grey. "I never visit the United States without experiencing a feeling of pride that we Canadians and Americans are related by the close ties of a common ancestry, and that consequently, although living under different forms of free and enlightened government, we are, so far as the real big things are concerned, practically one people."

President Taft declared it had been a great privilege to meet and talk with Earl Grey.

"The governor general and I have been comparing notes," he said, "and I find that his job and mine differ in several marked degrees—in his favor. He represents the king, and the king can do no wrong. The president can do no right—at least he hasn't anybody to throw it onto since Loeb left the White House."

The president referred briefly to the tariff conference to be held looking to an adjustment of differences with Canada. He said that every effort would be put forth by the American government to see if a means could be found of avoiding the creation of a tariff wall between this country and the dominion.

Gov. Hughes took advantage of the occasion to pay another tribute to President Taft. He also, amid great enthusiasm, demanded that public servants, unfaithful to their trusts, should be turned out of office.

Chicago.—In a speech before the Chicago Traffic club during the St. Patrick's Day's celebration in this city Thursday, President Taft devoted a portion of his remarks to the railroads and the law.

It was in acknowledgement of his election as an honorary member of the club and in the course of his address the chief executive said:

"I am against railroads only when they violate the law. But every man must have his day in court. I would be a coward if I did not consider every interest affected before passing upon legislation. I am not afraid of the people of the United States. They are fair when you can get the facts before them. But sometimes it is difficult to do this."

"It seems to be in the minds of some gentlemen in responsibility that the people who are to be consulted are not those directly affected. That if in the recommendation of legislation affecting railroads, you venture to consult railroad men that it is enough to condemn all the legislation which you recommend."

"Time was in this country when it was most difficult for any railroad man to conduct his business within the law. I worked to bring it about so that he may conduct his business within the law, and so that the law shall be fair, but so that he shall be made to feel the penalty of the law when he steps outside of it."

"I believe there is a course, and I believe there is legislation that we may have that can bring that about, and I hope that I may be always able, no matter what the result to me, to do justice between the great interests of this country—the people, the shippers and the railroads; that business may go on, that we shall all be within the law and that every man shall see that it is his ultimate advantage to uphold that law and preserve it and make it inviolate."

Girl Found Bound to Post.
New York.—In an apartment house cellar, Veronica Mueller, a 5-year-old errand girl, was found unconscious but upright, bound to a metal pillar. She had been attacked, the wine had been wound around her body from the waist to her chin almost as closely as the rappings of a bamboo fishing rod. The girl says she was decoyed into the cellar by a chauffeur.

Too Severe on Hazards.
Washington.—The premature termination of Col. Hugh Scott's career at the West Point academy is understood here to be due to the stern rapings against all kinds of hazards which he has exhibited at the military academy.

Bryan Is on Way Home.
New York.—William Jennings Bryan is the passengers on the steamship Verdi, which sailed from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, on March 18. The boat is due at Brooklyn pier April 5.

NORRIS MAY BE A SENATOR

NEBRASKAN LEADER OF FIGHT ON CANNON REVIEWS RESULT.

Thinks Triumph of "Insurgents" Will Aid Republican Party and Facilitate Legislation in House.

Washington.—George R. Norris, the "insurgent" who led the fight against Cannon, has come out of the row in the house with a good chance of succeeding Elmer J. Burkett as senator from Nebraska. Mr. Norris issued this statement after the battle was over:

"The change in the rules of the house is in the interest of representative government. It takes dictatorial power from the speaker and places at the command of the house opportunity to have brought forth from committees for consideration legislative matters in which any representative number of members of the house are interested."

"An enlarged committee necessarily means a broader appreciation of the true sentiment of the country, and of all its sections. Ten men from ten sections of the country have a more perfect appreciation of the desires of the country in legislative matters than one man from one section."

"Mark you, I have held that the speaker as chairman of the committee on rules dominated that committee. The speaker as a member of the house represents a single district no larger than my district; not so large a territory, nor so diversified in interest as many other districts represented. Therefore, his viewpoint of legislation needs to be restricted. But, because he is speaker he dominates to the disadvantage of the entire house membership and the injury of the country. This needed correction."

"My fight was not against Cannon; it was against Cannon's control of the committee on rules, and the injustices likely to flow therefrom. With the assistance of others who believed with me that the power of the speaker should be curbed and restricted and through Democratic aid, we have won. I am making no warfare on the Republican party. I am a Republican, working for party success. I believe what we Republicans have done will make for party success."

PEACE TERMS ARE REJECTED

Sub-Committees of Philadelphia Warring Factions Reach Agreement But Employes Turn It Down.

Philadelphia, Pa.—An agreement was reached between the representatives of the Rapid Transit Company and the striking street car men as a basis for the termination of the car strike. But when it was submitted to the car employes the agreement was rejected.

The agreement was reached by a sub-committee of the general strike committee and representatives of the company and provided that all men now on strike, who were in the employ of the company on February 19 when the strike was called, were to be restored to their positions. The cases of the 175 men, whose discharge by the company precipitated the general strike, were to be submitted to arbitration.

Four former members of the council also are said to have corroborated Klein's accusation and 60 members of the former council-mani body probably will be arrested as a result.

GORDON'S TESTIMONY PROVES INTERESTING

Charles W. Gordon, whose picture is given above, is agent for the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company in Ogdensburg, N. Y., and resides at 78 King street, that city. In giving testimony regarding his own case, Mr. Gordon recently made the following statement:

"Some time ago, while suffering from stomach catarrh, I was advised to take Cooper's New Discovery, and did so, two bottles of the preparation putting my stomach into good condition. Previous to my taking the New Discovery I could not eat a meal without experiencing pain and discomfort afterward."

"I had been in this condition for a long time, although I had tried many different remedies in search of relief, and at last reached the conclusion that I had exhausted every available resource. Cooper's New Discovery was therefore to me almost a heaven-sent blessing, and the work of the medicine was so permanent and lasting that I have had no recurrence of my former trouble whatever."

"I can eat anything I care for without noticing any bad effects afterward. I have recommended Cooper's New Discovery to many persons of my acquaintance, and it never fails to give satisfactory results. It reaches the seat of stomach trouble in mighty short order."

Cooper's New Discovery is sold by all druggists. If your druggist cannot supply you, we will forward you the name of a druggist in your city who will. Don't accept "something just as good."—The Cooper Medicine Co., Dayton, Ohio.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when coloring it through the mucous surface. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co., Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists. Price, 75c. per bottle. Then get half a pint of good whiskey and put the other two ingredients into it. Take a tablespoonful of this mixture before each meal and at bed time. Shake the bottle before using." Good effects are felt the first day. Many of the worst cases here have been cured by this. Any druggist has these ingredients on hand or will quickly get them from his wholesale house.

WHERE SHE HAD HEARD IT

Mrs. Jackson Quite Confident She Had Picked Out a Biblical Name for Her Boy.

The late Bishop Gallier was once asked to baptize a negro baby boy. "Name this child," he said, addressing Mrs. Jackson, the mother of the black mite.

"Hallud."

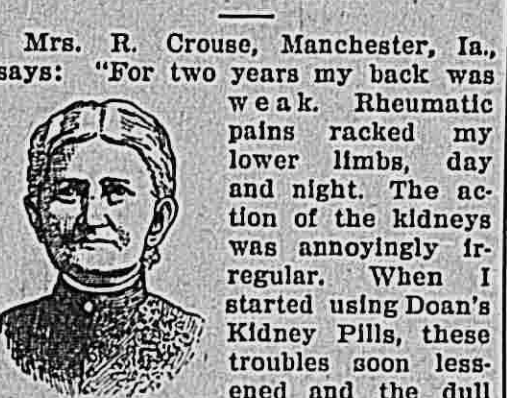

"That's a strange name, Mrs. Jackson," remarked the bishop, hesitatingly.

"Scripture name," rejoined the happy mother, with a confident grin. "I never saw it in the Bible."

"Why, bishop, how kin yuh stan' up dar kiddin' a ole ignorant niggah laik I s'ys? Yuh says dat name, whenever yuh says de Lawd's prayer, 'Hallud be thy name!'"—Success Magazine.

A WONDERFUL CHANGE.

From Daily Wretchedness and Pain to Normal Health.

Mrs. R. Crouse, Manchester, Ia., says: "For two years my back was weak. Rheumatic pains racked my lower limbs, day and night. The action of the kidneys was annoyingly irregular. When I started using Doan's Kidney Pills, these troubles soon lessened and the dull backache vanished. The kidneys now act normally and I give Doan's Kidney Pills credit for this wonderful change."

Remember the name—Doan's. For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Right Spirit.

Apropos of Valentine's Day, a passenger on the Bermudian said: "Mark Twain once told us, in a little Valentine Day speech on this boat, of an Irish wooer who had the right Valentine spirit. Acceptance or rejection he could take with equal grace."

"Will ye be my valentine?" he said, on February 14, to the girl he loved.

"No," she replied; "I am another's."

"He heaved a sigh and said:

"Sure, thin, darlin', I wish ye was twins, so that I could have at laste the half of ye."

A Big Shortage in Seeds.

From almost all sections comes the report of frightful shortages in seed crops; also in some varieties of seed barley, oats, rye, wheat, flax, clovers and the early varieties of potatoes.

This is particularly noticeable in the great corn and oat and potato growing states.

Thus: The great states of Nebraska and Iowa are suffering from a dearth of seed corn as never before.

The wide-awake farmers in these and other states are placing their orders early for above seeds in order to be on the safe side, and we can but urge farmers to write at once to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., Box 182, La Crosse, Wis., for their farm seed and corn catalogue.

The magnitude of the business of this long established firm can be somewhat estimated when one knows that in ordinary years they sell:

50,000 bushels of elegant seed corn.
100,000 bushels of seed potatoes.
100,000 bushels of seed oats.
50,000 bushels of seed wheat.
100,000 bushels of pure clover and timothy seeds, together with an endless amount of other farm seeds and vegetable seeds, such as onions, cabbages, carrots, peas, beans, lettuce, radishes, tomatoes, etc.

There is one thing about the Salzer firm—they never disappoint. They always fill your order on account of the enormous stocks they carry.

Send them 8 cents for a package of their great $500 prize Corn and Catalogue. Address, John A. Salzer Seed Co., Box 182, La Crosse, Wis.

Two Points of View.

Mrs. Whoopser—For my part, I think Mr. Dyer was mean when he made his wife promise she would never marry again.

Mr. Whoopser—Oh, Mary, don't judge the poor man so harshly; you ought to be thankful because he probably prevented some brother man from being made miserable.

The great innovation of the wireless apparatus which is so much in vogue now will be used on the stage. It was loaned to the company by the manufacturers. This will be an opportunity for the public at large to make themselves acquainted with this great invention. A six piece orchestra will render classic and popular selections at these performances, which will be directed by an able conductor. Tickets are now on sale at the Lake Villa post office, and those wishing to enjoy the privilege of enjoying a pleasant evening would do well to purchase their seats at the earliest opportunity.

On Wednesday evening, March 16, Mr. and Mrs. David Pullen with thirty of their friends and neighbors celebrated their twelfth wedding anniversary.

The evening was spent in old fashion games and the occasion will be remembered as one of the social events of the season. Music by the graphophone and Frazier and Trainer did justice on the violin and picalo. Refreshments were served and the host and hostess were taken by surprise when Ed Wells, as toastmaster, presented Mrs. Pullen with a half dozen silver table spoons and Mrs. C. Taylor presented Mr. Pullen with a large bread mixer with the following few lines to his honor:

The staff of life is the best of food,
To feed both young and old,
But the work of making a thousand loves
Has never yet been told.

So to lighten the work of Florence's hands,
All the hungry mouths to fill,
We bring to Dave a pail with a crank,
That he can turn—if he will.

But let him beware, while he is turning,
That it don't turn hard like a rock,
If it does, what it needs, is a wee drop of oil,

Just to prevent a hot box.

The guests departed for their many homes in the wee small hours of the morning, after wishing Mr. and Mrs. Pullen many more years of happiness in their matrimonial pilgrimage.
